Sunday, February 10: Raptors of the Midwest by Ty Smedes, 2:00 p.m., Briar Cliff University, Saint Francis Center. Learn about the hawks, falcons, eagles, owls, and vultures that live in Iowa or migrate through on their way to nesting or wintering areas. Ty Smedes, Wildlife Photographer & author has spent countless hours in the field studying and capturing the natural history of these birds of prey. He will share tips for identifying and locating these fascinating birds. In addition, there will be many colorful photos to help with identification. We will also have a visit from the Nature Center's live birds of prey. This program is free, open to all and part of the Annual Meeting of the Woodbury County Conservation Foundation. For more information dsnyder@woodburyparks.org or 712-258-0838. Note venue change. Thanks to Center for Prairie Studies at Briar Cliff University for hosting this event.
