

The Woodbury County Conservation Board houses a variety of resident animals at the Dorothy Pecaut Nature Center. The animals are on display for the public to view and are used for educational programs with schools, scouts, nature camps etc. This adoption program will assist us in the cost of feeding and caring for these animals.

The adoption moneys will pay for food, bedding, vitamins, special UV lights and other supplies needed for their care. Animals can be adopted for three, six or twelve months.

Sponsors will receive:

- An adoption certificate
- Photograph of adopted animal
- Informational fact sheet
- Name displayed at Nature Center

Help Fill our Feeders

Another sponsorship available is to help us fill our bird feeders at the Nature Center. This helps us provide food for songbirds and is a great opportunity for visitors to view wildlife. You can help by donating birdseed or money for us to purchase seed or sugar for bees and hummingbirds. Please indicate bird feeders on the adoption form.

Animal Feeding

We occasionally offer public programs for you to watch our animals eat. We may offer food to our fish, turtles, snakes and raptors for you to see how these different critters eat. We just can't guarantee they will cooperate for the crowd. :-) Check our calendar of events for these programs. Our website is www.woodburyparks.org

About the Animals

Oz, Ornate Box Turtle

Scarlet, Red-tailed Hawk

Each animal that resides at the Dorothy Pecaut Nature Center has its own story. Some are injured permanently or are unable to be released. We do our best to care for them by providing a healthy diet, vitamins and even exercise. We also consult with a veterinarian yearly or as needed.

Listed below are the animals available for adoption. If you have questions or need more information contact Theresa Kruid at tkruid@woodburyparks.org or call 712-258-0838.

Swans at Little Sioux Park

April 5, 2018 the Conservation Board released four Trumpeter Swans at Little Sioux Park, Correctionville, IA. The release was a part of the Iowa DNR's statewide swan restoration effort to restore a wild free population in Iowa. Your sponsorship would help us supplement their diet, especially during the winter months.
